U. F. A. Keeps Away From Labor Platform

MANY IMPORTANT SUBJECTS AFFECTING AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS DISCUSSED AT BIG CONVENTION IN EDMONTON—TIMELY RESOLUTIONS PASSED—ANNUAL DUES INCREASED TO $2.

Edmonton, Jan. 22.—With the singing of the National Anthem, sung as heartily, if not more so, than any of their rousing rallying songs, another milestone was added to the history of the United Farmers of Alberta on Friday night. The thirteenth annual convention thus brought to a close, certainly in point of numbers of delegates, was an out-and-out record, and is an eloquent tribute to the enormous progress that the organization has made since its inception.

Many important subjects affecting the agricultural interests of the province were discussed with an intelligence which at once amply demonstrated the fact that Alberta farmers have made the best possible use of past experience. Contrasted with conventions of only a few years ago, the great strides that have been made even in the rules of debate alone well entitles them to term their big annual gathering "the Farmers' Parliament."

Right throughout the convention there was that tolerance displayed for "the other fellow's view" that was nothing if it were not refreshing. This feature was brought as prominently forward as the depth of understanding displayed by almost all the speakers. Alberta certainly in this respect need not be ashamed of her farmers.

The great outstanding feature of the convention was, of course, the decision of the delegates on the suggested co-operative wheat pool. In action as they did the delegates displayed sound common sense. The magnitude of the scheme is such that it will take the very best brains of the country to bring it into existence. As stated by H. W. Wood, the president of the organization, it would be far better to delay action for even two or three years and be sure of success than to rush into the scheme haphazardly and make it a failure.

Not the least important point that will undoubtedly engage the attention of the executive and board of directors will be that of political action. In this respect the atmosphere has now been made quite clear. That is that there are not two branches of the U.F.A. and that whatever political activities are engaged in it will be the sentiment of the organization as a whole.

Although good progress was made with the vast accumulation of resolutions during the convention, time did not permit of anything like the whole of these to be dealt with. On motion it was decided to refer the latter to the directors for action at the earliest possible moment.

At the concluding session the convention finally refused to pass a resolution that a universal minimum wage law be included in the farmers' platform. Chairman Greenfield remarked that it would be a mistake to intermix labor planks with theirs. "Let labor have its own platform," he said, "we are quite willing to co-operate."

On another point in connection with labor the Government labor bureau came in for quite a grilling by some of the delegates. Clover Bar local had a resolution asking the convention to go on record that private employment agencies be allowed to again do business in the province. It was pointed out by some of the delegates that the bureau last season evidently only endeavored to get bigger wages rather than to help the farmer.

The chairman stated that arrangements had been made whereby the bureau officials, the labor people, and farmers' representatives would meet at Regina, and he suggested that the matter be left in abeyance until then and dealt with by the executive. He cited a case where it was entirely a farmer's fault in being instrumental in increasing out of all proportion the wage of help. The suggestion of the chairman was agreed upon.

Although there were many instances throughout the convention that caused the utmost mirth, not the least being the "bull" of the chairman on one occasion when he announced that "a black lady's purse" had been found, they were all capped when a resolution from Verdun Valley became up shortly before the final close of the proceedings. This was in connection with petitioning the government to fix a Thanksgiving date suitable to rural districts. A portion of the resolution read "Whereas moonlight is essential to rural social activities," and the request was made that "Monday or so before full moon in October" would be the most suitable time.

"I think a lady must have drafted that resolution," remarked Chairman Greenfield, while the farmers roared forth their hearty laughs. A few of the plucky farmers held up their hands when "Question" was called, but they were snowed under by the others, who did not care a fig about moonlight.

The convention was also enlivened by a discussion on the cigarette habit among youths. A resolution submitted by the Grand Meadow women's section objected to the manufacture of cigarettes or cigarette papers. Some of the delegates appeared to be rather afraid that the ladies might spring something on the men at the next convention prohibiting pipe smoking also. Another delegate said that the ladies themselves were the greatest offenders. "Of course," he added, "I am not referring to the members of the U.F.W.A."

A resolution urging the U.G.G. to make a special feature of the sale of seed grain and have such grades as Extra No. 1 and No. 1 C.W. oats quoted, was carried, as was also another that the central board "sound the province of Alberta as to the possibility of erecting a co-operative tannery in Calgary or Edmonton."

The Amisk local requested the government to grant farmers and threshermen the privilege of working on Sunday if they so desired during harvesting and threshing seasons, but this was turned down by an overwhelming majority.

A resolution that the annual dues be increased $1 per annum, commencing January 1922, in order to meet the additional expenses of the central office administration, was adopted.

COMMUNICATION

"Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 19|21.

"To the editor of the Wetaskiwin Times.

"A Canadian, after having read the headlines of the American papers, which proclaimed in bold faced type that prices have dropped from 50 to 100 %, finds that in reality it is only a hallucination.

"It is true that according to the various advertisements appearing in the daily papers there is a drop of ½ to ½ of former prices, but after all it is only hypothetical.

"To be more concrete, one of the leading men's clothing stores in this city is advertising that suits which have sold formerly for $35, $50 and $100 are now being sold for $50. From mere examination of figures it is evident that the reduction in price is from 70 to 100%, but in reality it shows only the inflation of prices at the so-called peak was much above what any Canadian ever dreamed of. Furthermore, at these reduced prices merchandise in the retail stores is still relatively higher here than in Canada.

"There are two very plausible factors which are at the root of these high prices. Foremost among these seems to be the apathy for profiteering which the Yankee merchants developed during the world war. Another factor is the fabulous overhead expenses in cities.

"A Canadian can not help but observe the craze existing among the women here. Cloth top overshoes having 3 to 6 buckles, which according to latest mode are not to be buckled are a very salient feature on all the streets. Merchants claim that the demand is so great that the wholesale supplies have been exhausted.

"Yours truly,
"M. BRODY."

THE LATE RIGHT HONORABLE A. L. SIFTON

Ottawa, Jan. 21.—Right Honorable Arthur Lewis Sifton, secretary of state for Canada, died at 8:30 o'clock this morning at his apartment at the Chateau Laurier. A short time previously Mr. Sifton had lapsed into unconsciousness. With him when he died were his son and Senator W. J. Harmer, who was a close friend. On Tuesday, after a consultation of specialists, hope was expressed for the recovery of Mr. Sifton, who suffered from arterio-sclerosis thickening of the arteries), but another relapse early today ended fatally.

The deceased cabinet minister had been ill for some weeks, and had been under the care of Dr. Campbell Laidlaw of Ottawa. On January 19 he suffered a relapse and specialists from Toronto were called in. It was then announced that hopes for his recovery were entertained.

Right Honorable Arthur Lewis Sifton, K.C., M.A., LL.B., D.C.L., member for Medicine Hat, was born at St. John's, Middlesex county, Ontario, on October 26, 1859. He was a son of John Wright Sifton, for some years a member and for one term speaker of the legislature for Manitoba. In 1865 he removed with his parents to Manitoba, where his father executed a number of large contracts in various parts of the province and also conducted sucessfully a large wheat farm near Brandon, Man.

He was educated in Wesley college, Winnipeg, and Victoria university, Cobourg, Ontario, obtaining degree of B.A. in 1880 and honorable degrees of M.A. and L.L.B. in 1888. In May 1880 he started the study of law in Winnipeg and was admitted to the Manitoba bar in 1883. He first practiced in Brandon where he was a member of the first city council in 1882. Shortly afterward he removed to Prince Albert, Sask., and after practicing there for a short time took up residence in Calgary.

Mr. Sifton was elected member of the old Northwest assembly and in 1891 became commissioner of public works in the Haultain ministry. The same year he was created K.C. In January 1903 he resigned from the ministry on becoming chief justice of the Northwest Territories and after the establishment of the province of Alberta in September 1905 he became chief justice of that province.

He resigned on May 26, 1910, and on the same day accepted the task of forming a new provincial ministry to succeed that of Hon. A. C. Rutherford. He announced his ministry June 1, and assumed in addition to the premiership the portfolio of president of the executive council, minister of public works and provincial treasurer. In December 1911 he was appointed in addition minister of telephones and railways. May 4, 1913, he relinquished his portfolios of treasurer and public works. He was elected to the Alberta legislature representing Vermilion, June 29, 1910, and re-elected in 1913.

On October 12, 1917, he was sworn into the federal privy council and became minister of customs in Sir Robert Borden's Unionist government. In June 1918 he became minister of customs and inland revenue and was elected a delegate to the peace conference in 1919 at Paris. As Canadian delegate he signed the peace treaty. September 13, 1919, he was appointed minister of public works and December 3, 1919, appointed to the position of secretary of state which he held at the time of his death. January 1, 1920, he was appointed a member of his majesty's privy council carrying with it the title of the Right Honorable. He is survived by his widow, one son and daughter.

GOVERNMENT TO GUARANTEE LOAN TO FARMERS

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 19.—The government is making arrangements with the banks for advances to those farmers of the west who lost their crops last year and who are unable to personally finance the purchase of seed grain. It is estimated that the amount of the advances will be about half a million dollars. The advances are to be made only to homesteaders, actually engaged in farming, on the security of their personal notes, the government tundertaking to make good in the event of default.

OBITUARY

REV. J. P. FOSTVEDT

It came as a great shock to the entire community to learn that Rev. Johan Peter Fostvedt, pastor of the Norwegian Lutheran congregation had passed away on Thursday of last week after a short illness of double pneumonia and Bright's disease. He was born in Norway on October 7th, 1870, hence he was aged fifty years, three months and thirteen days.

In 1907 he emigrated to the United States. Having the education of a teacher in the old land, his interest was naturally centered in the work of the church. After completing the regular theological course in the seminary at Minneapolis, he was ordained in 1910, and came to Wetaskiwin as a missionary pastor, this being his first and only appointment.

He leaves to mourn his loss a widow and family of three children, a sister, Mrs. Jeglum, at Gwynne; a brother, Carl Fostvedt, at Crooked Lake, and one sister and three brothers in Norway, besides a very large circle of friends and acquaintances.

The late Mr. Fostvedt was very happy and conscious up to the time the spirit took its flight. After bidding the relatives farewell, and urging them to prepare for the life hereafter, his final words were "Jesus is coming soon."

The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon, service being held in the Norwegian Lutheran church at two o'clock. The ministers from Edmonton, Saskatoon, Ponoka, Camrose and Lowit, and one layman from Camrose all took part in the service, and these gentlemen were the pallbearers. During the service Mrs. and Miss Natalia Carlson sang a duet and Miss Carlson sang a solo, which were beautifully rendered. A very large crowd was in attendance, friends coming from near and far to pay their last tribute of respect to the departed.

The remains were laid away in the Wetaskiwin cemetery.

DEATH OF MRS. C. S. CROSBY

Mr. C. S. Crosby, postmaster and druggist, Eckville, will have sincere sympathy in the death on Wednesday morning of Mrs. Crosby at the age of 33 years. Mrs. Crosby has been threatened with a serious malady for some months and consultations with medical experts at Calgary and Edmonton two months ago brought no hope of relief, her stay on earth being predicted almost to a day. She was about, up to a couple of weeks ago, when she was compelled to give in and gradually weakened to the end. Mrs. Crosby came as a bride to Red Deer from Dauphin, Man., and made many friends both in Red Deer and Eckville by her social and musical gifts. She leaves a little girl three years old. She was buried in Red Deer cemetery on Thursday afternoon, Rev. G. D. Armstrong and Mr. McGregor conducting the service in H. G. Stone & Sons' funeral parlors. There was quite a gathering of friends, especially from Eckville. The pallbearers were Messrs. Secrap, Berry, Clausen, Lowe, Coghlin and Garries. Among the mourners were Mrs. Crosby's mother and sister, Mrs. and Miss Willis of Dauphin, Man., and Mr. Crosby's father, Mr. A. C. Crosby, principal of the Vermilion schools.—Red Deer Advocate.

NIGHT CLASSES IN MOTOR MECHANICS

A number of persons appeared at the Alexandra school last week in response to the notice in last week's press, so that the school board felt justified in organizing a course of night classes in Motor Mechanics. Mr. Ehrich of Wetaskiwin has been engaged as instructor. The first class will be held in one of the high school rooms in the Alexandra school on Wednesday night of this week, commencing at eight o'clock. The course will cover at least ten lessons. As the expense to each one attending will be very small, and as the course should prove very interesting and useful, the school board is in hopes that a large and flourishing class will be established and that this will be the fore-runner of classes in other subjects.

Council Engages Electrician And Caretaker for City Hall

CHIEF HAIG'S RESIGNATION ACCEPTED — SUPT. WATSON MAKES CERTAIN RECOMMENDATIONS—ALBERTA HOTEL'S FINANCIAL POSITION—ACCOUNTS PASSED.

The regular meeting of the city council was held on Monday evening with all members in attendance.

After the minutes of the previous meeting had been adopted the resignation of A. M. Haig as chief of police was read and accepted. Advertisements will be inserted in the Calgary Herald, The Edmonton Journal and The Wetaskiwin Times, calling for applications for chief of police and fire chief, salary $125.00 and uniform, applications to be received up to Feb. 8th, duties to commence March 1st.

Supt. Watson wrote recommending the appointment of Walter Chapman as city electrician, and that the city change its system in the light and power department, having the line work under the one management as it was a few years ago.

Eighteen applications for the position of city electrician were then read and considered, when it was moved by Compton—MacEachern—That the application of Walter Chapman be accepted at a salary of $140 a month, duties to commence February 1st. Carried.

The matter of the payment of the account for tile by the Carrol-Wilson Company was referred to the finance committee and the solicitor to make the collection.

The finance commission of the province wrote re having debenture forms printed for the outstanding debentures, as per arrangement, and this matter was referred to the finance committee with power to act.

The finance committee reported that the city insurance had been placed among the local agents as equitably as possible. Their action was ratified.

The finance committee reported on the financial position of the Alberta Hotel, and advised that arangements be made to have all rents from tenants paid to the city until such time as the amount owing to the city is settled.

The matter of caretaker at the city hall was then discussed, when it was moved by Richards—MacEachern—That Mr. Sheppard be given thirty days' notice, and that W. R. Shearing be given the position at a salary of $70 a month. Carried.

A letter was read from Supt. Watson recommending that a gas engine in Calgary of similar make to the one at the power house be purchased, the price being $4000. As the engine here requires considerable repairs, the parts can be taken from this machine. The matter was referred to the light and power committee to report.

The question of salaries paid at the power house was considered, and the matter was referred to the committee to interview Supt. Watson re the same.

Compton—Ellis—That unless the curling club comply with the arrangement re the payment of taxes without further delay, they be not allowed the rebate.

The following accounts were then passed for payment: general, $2329.92; light and power, $1310.16; fire and water, $918.36; payroll, $218.35.

Bylaw No. 410, appointing J. H. Reid assessor for the year 1921, at a salary of $300 was read three times and finally passed.

Meeting adjourned.

ELECTION ADDRESS

To the Electors of the City of Wetaskiwin.

Ladies & Gentlemen:

Having compiled with the wishes of a large number of my friends to become a candidate in the bye-election on Friday of this week for Alderman, I take this opportunity of cordially soliciting your vote and influence on this occasion.

If elected, I assure you I will do my utmost to serve the best interests of the city at all times, having in mind the financial position of the city.

Yours respectfully,
WM. GIBSON.

PROPOSED WHEAT POOL FAVORED BY DIRECTORS U.F.A.

Edmonton, Jan. 20.—Favorable report on the proposed wheat pool was contained in the directors' report to the annual convention of the association, which outlined the steps taken by the United Farmers of Alberta to secure the reappointment of the wheat board. Failure of this resulted, the report states, in the executive requesting by resolution that plans for the formation of a wheat pool be discussed.

By the membership drive carried out in 1920 the board reports organization has been perfected for use in solving the problems which will confront the association during 1921. Through the U.F.A. relief from hardship caused because of drought was given 1700 families, and $20,000 was distributed. More relief is needed because of crop failures, the report adds.

ELECTION ADDRESS

To the Electors of the City of Wetaskiwin.

Ladies & Gentlemen:

Having yielded to the urgent request of a large number of my friends, I am a candidate for alderman in the bye-election to be held on Friday of this week.

Not having time to make a personal canvas, I take this opportunity of cordially soliciting your vote and influence, and assure you that if elected I will do my utmost to merit the confidence you have placed in me.

Thanking you in anticipation for your support, I remain,

Yours respectfully,
B. M. PARKER

57 MEN LOST IN SUBMARINE DISASTER

London, Jan. 23.—Beyond the fact hat it was established that the British submarine K-5 was not rammed, there is nothing yet to explain the cause of the disaster to the submarine off Lands End last Thursday. This was the first British naval disaster since the armistice was signed and the worst submarine accident to the country in peace times.

Many theories concerning the disappearance of the underwater boat are being advanced, but although an official inquiry into the disaster is being held aboard the battleship Queen Elizabeth, it is doubtful whether anything more concerning the fate of the K-5 will ever be known. Wreckage has been found near the spot where the submarine was last seen.

It is surmised that the vessel may have been damaged by an internal explosion or by the great pressure of the water at the depth of five hundred feet, where the craft is supposed to lie. Salvage is considered impossible and it is doubtful whether it will be possible to obtain a photograph of the wreck, as was done in the case of the steamer Laurentic when that vessel was sunk in the Lough Swilly.

The official list of those on board the K-5 issued tonight confirms the previous estimate of six officers and fifty-one men on board.

PIMPLES and BLOTCHES
ALL OVER HER FACE.

Pimples, blotches and all other unsightly skin troubles are caused by the blood being in an impure condition. Those little festering sores, appear on the forehead, on the nose, on the chin, and other parts of the body, and although they are not a dangerous trouble they are very unsightly.

There is only one way to get rid of them, and that is by purifying the blood of all its impurities.

Burdock Blood Bitters is without a doubt the best remedy for this purpose. This valuable medicine has been on the market for the past 42 years and its reputation is such that you are not experimenting with some new and untried remedy.

Miss Marguerite Brigley, 61 Maine Ave., Halifax, N.S., writes:—"I have suffered very much, during the last two years, from pimples and blotches, having them all over my face. I tried different remedies without any relief. I was advised to try Burdock Blood Bitters, which I did, and after taking just two bottles I have been, as I believe, permanently relieved, as I haven't had a pimple or blotch since. I can highly recommend Burdock Blood Bitters.

Sport A-Plenty on Vancouver Island all the Time

When Captain Vancouver discovered Vancouver Island 128 years ago, he declared that it required only to be nourished by the industry of man, with villages, mansions and cottages to be "the most lovely country that can be imagined." Man has ably supplemented Nature since then, and the traveller who has crossed the United States to California returns east through Canada to enjoy the beauties of Victoria and Vancouver and the Canadian Pacific Rockies.

Owing to its mild climate in winter, Vancouver Island is as great a playground for lovers of sports as it is in summer. There are splendid roads and famous drives for the motorist, water sports of all kinds are popular, and golf, tennis and cricket have thousands of devotees.

Victoria and Vancouver girls are clever with the oars, particularly the girl scullers of the Vancouver Rowing Club who have won laurels even in competition with crews of the sterner sex. In the picture they are (left to right), Miss Elsie Cooper, Miss C. Shamp, Miss R. Matheson, Miss Florence Cooper and Miss Leonie Lalonde.

Vancouver Island is a great resort for fishermen who lure their finny prizes from both fresh and salt water. One of the gamest of these is the tyee salmon, so called by the Indians, the name meaning king fish. Victoria has many expert fishermen, among them W. R. Fletcher, a conductor on the Equimalt & Nanaimo Railway, who recently caught two tyee salmon weighing 40 and 45 pounds, respectively.

"When one of these boys hits the spoon," says Fletcher, "he'll keep you 'stepping some" for a while. He'll tow you around, dive for the bottom of the sea, then come up and jump five feet in the air. Sometimes he'll fight for nearly an hour before you land him in the boat."

BETTER METHODS OF HANDLING PRISONERS NOW

"You have only done half your duty when you have apprehended a man who has been guilty of crime, and brought about his conviction. It is equally your duty to bring pressure to bear upon all authorities in order that members of his family shall not suffer when the breadwinner is locked up."

This declaration by Dr. H. J. Rivers, superintendent of the provincial jail at Lethbridge, was perhaps one of the most timely words of advice offered to members of the Calgary Canadian Club and the Board of Trade at luncheon Friday. Dr. Rivers, in an address in which pathos and humor mingled, described the revolution in the treatment of prisoners which has been brought about in recent years—the abandonment of the purely punitive conception of justice and the substitution of a new conception, that of helpfulness, of providing every possible aid to the restoration of "a man who has been overtaken in a fault" to normal citizenship.

That the old method of dealing with prisoners has been abandoned and that a definite attempt is being made to assist those who are imprisoned for offences against the law in regaining self respect and the qualities of citizenship was made plain by the citation of specific cases by the jail superintendent. This is a matter largely in the hands of the prison authorities. The lesson which Dr. Rivers sought to drive home, an enterprise in which he completely succeeded, was that it is grossly unjust and cruel to inflict punishment on the families of men guilty of offences against the criminal law. As matters stand today he showed that such punishment is common, and seems to be inevitable. He cited the case of a homesteader who had been imprisoned, whose wife and family lived in a remote prairie country in a shack unprotected against the cold weather, who would have starved had not Dr. Rivers himself, on learning of the circumstances, allowed the man to leave the jail for a specified period in order to set matters right in his home. The prisoner, said the superintendent, returned after completing his task, at the exact hour determined when he was given leave to go from the jail. It was not always possible to trust a prisoner, but Dr. Rivers considered that in cases where men had been placed upon their honor, this action had been fully justified in the event.

Dr. Rivers' exposition of the methods employed at the Lethbridge jail in an endeavor to reclaim prisoners to society and the world, recalled the words of the great Russian Dostoevski, who had himself suffered imprisonment in the foulest jails which were at the disposition of czarish tyranny. "Every one," said Dostoevski, "whoever he may be and however downtrodden he may be, demands—though perhaps instinctively, perhaps unconsciously—respect for his dignity as a human being. The convict knows himself that he is a convict, an outcast, but by no branding, by no fetters will you make him forget that he is a human being. And as he really is a human being, he ought to be treated as such. Humane treatment may humanize even one in whom the image of God has been long obscured."

"There is nothing to compare with the open air and sunshine to bring about a man's recovery, whether from physical or moral ills," said Dr. Rivers. "You can do little for a man morally unless you build him up physically. God is speaking to our men as they are out in the sunshine."

The Lethbridge jail consists of 1,100 acres and the greater part of this is laid out as a farm. Plenty of good food was provided and the hours were regular.—Calgary Albertan.

REAL ESTATE BROKERS

As the bill to regulate real estate brokers proposed by the real estate association of the province provides for the imposition of license fees, it is essential that it should be introduced as a government measure. This fact was brought out at a conference between members of the real estate bureau of the Calgary board of trade and members of the legislature living in the Calgary district. There was a large attendance of members, the draft bill was read clause by clause by Edmund Taylor of the firm of Lougheed & Taylor. H. H. Farman, chairman of the bureau, was in the chair.

The principles of the bill, it was stated during the course of the discussion, is to protect the public. In order that this may be done effectively it is necessary that bona fide real estate brokers should be protected in carrying on their business, that only those who are competent and know the country well should be allowed to enter it. It is not intended to create a close corporation of any sort. Members of the bureau pointed out that the licensing of real estate men is fully as important as the licensing of insurance agents, and persons engaged in other similar business.

The Alberta provincial real estate association has the bill in hand, and the Calgary bureau recommended that this provincial body shall arrange with the government for the introduction of the bill. The draft, it was stated, is by way of suggestion only, and the government in introducing a bill, while it will have the draft before it, will make any changes which may be deemed necessary.

In the course of the discussion it was pointed out by Alex. Ross, M.P.P., that no rules as to the qualifications necessary in licensing are laid down in the bill. While any such provision presents obvious difficulties, any plan which will maintain the level of competence among persons allowed to engage in the real estate business will meet with the approval of the bureau, it was stated.

The necessity of providing adequate penalties for violation of the provisions of the act was also dwelt upon.

THE "WHY" IN PRICES OF MEAT AND CATTLE

When the packer buys a steer he buys two separate things. It is not the simple beef he has to look at. He has to take another more elusive factor into account. This is the so-called by-products. They are almost as important in deciding the price of the steer as the carcass itself.

But they happen to be far more difficult to buy. Trade conditions governing them after they have left the packer's hands are subject to wide ranges and lately to erratic prices. What the packer can secure for beef is a matter of reasonably calculation; it may be sold within a week or two from the time it leaves the farm. It is far otherwise with the hide, oils, casings, tripe, fertilizers, grease, blood and sinews taken out of the total and which were, before the coming of the packing-house, largely wasted. It requires many months for some of these to reach their ultimate consumer because they have to be manufactured in a variety of ways. Hides take fully a month to cure. The prices of all these things do not move in any way which can be gauged at the time the packer buys them as part of the steer.

The year just closed saw an unprecedented slump in by-product prices. Hides bringing nearly 50 cents a pound in the spring could not be sold for even 15 cents in the fall. The farmer himself felt, in the decline from 75c to 20c which took place in the price of wool, what the packer experienced in his by-products. Mutton was as much in demand as ever but the price of sheep fell away down because sheepskins that had been worth $4.50 to packers dropped to 70c.

A bit of arithmetic will show what may happen in the purchase of an 850lb steer, first, when hides and other by-products bring good prices, and second, when these bring low prices:

A. Paid for Steer @ 13c $110.00
All expenses (say) 15.00

Cost of Steer $125.00
Receipts from by-products:
Hide 60lbs @ 50c. $30.00
Other by-products 10.00

$40.00

Thus leaving 425lbs of meat to produce $85.00

or, in other words, the meat must sell in the carcass at 20c a lb to cover the cost of the live animal.

B. Paid for steer @ 10c $85.00
All expenses (same) 15.00

Cost of steer $100.00
Receipts from by-products:
Hide 60lbs @ 12c $7.20
Other by-products 6.00

$13.20

Leaving 425lbs of meat to produce $86.80

or meat must sell in the carcass at 20.4c a lb to cover cost alone.

(The actual range in prices for hides and by-products in Toronto during 1920 was greater than that shown.)

Both calculations assume that the steer is without diseases or bruises or other flaws to reduce the value of the saleable meat, hide and by-products.

The same causes answer the consumer's complaint that prices of meats do not go down.

The falling value of by-products touches livestock figures, i.e., the farmer's price, before it can affect prepared meat figures, i.e., the retailer's price. The packer cannot get more for his meat to counterbalance the drop in by-products. Meat prices are always close to the line between profit and loss. That must be always so with a perishable product. As the packer each day has to take all the raw material which comes on the market in the shape of live animals, he must, in order to sell at a price which will clear the stock, pass the meats on to the consumer while they are fresh, or face another drop in prices because the products will have got stale.

The convention of the Alberta school trustees will be held in Calgary February 2 and 3.

MULHURST

The annual meeting of School District No. 1451 was held in the school house on Wednesday, Jan. 12th, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The following ratepayers were present: Mrs. Wagar, Mrs. Quick and Messrs. Covar, O. J. Ayers, H. O. Ayers, A. Knight, G. W. Mulligan, G. H. Mulligan, S. Wagar, R. Van Valkenburg and M. T. Orrock.

That sentiment which was present at the annual meeting a year ago was absent, which was much appreciated by all present.

Mr. Van Valkenburg was unanimously chosen chairman of the meeting, and in his usual happy manner ably discharged his duties.

The usual reports and correspondence were read by the secretary, and after due consideration, with but one exception to one item in the trustees' report, were adopted.

Miss Edna Wallis of Fort Saskatchewan, who taught last year, was highly commended for her careful and painstaking method of conducting the school, especially the manner in which she reported to the chief attendance officer at Edmonton the names and address of all children of school age in the district who were not attending school regularly.

The following is a copy of a letter attached to the copy of the minutes of the annual meeting forwarded to the Department, which explains the objection taken to an item in the trustees' report.

"To the Deputy Minister of Education.
"Dear Sir:

"At the annual meeting held at the Spring Hill school Jan. 12th objection was made to the trustees' report.

"Joeina M. Wagar, who was before marriage Joeina M. Ewe, felt that an injustice had been done her, in that she had not been given credit for advancing the pupils.

"Upon investigation it was found that Mrs. Wagar had made the mistake of copying the attendance for the month of July 1919 onto the summary of attendance for the term ending December 31st, 1919, so that the progress made by the pupils was not indicated in the report sent to you.

(Signed)
R. Van Valkenburg,
Chairman.
M. T. Orrock, Sec'y."

Mr. Oliver J. Ayers, who has been a trustee for a number of years, resigned in December. Mr. Ayers has always taken a lively interest in the affairs of the district, and during the years he has served on the board has mostly been the chairman; he has always been unwavering in his efforts to build up the school. Mr. H. Dowler was unanimously elected by acclamation to fill the vacancy on the board, caused by the resignation of Mr. Ayers.

The most pleasing feature of the meeting was the friendly rivalry between two of our prominent young men for the office of trustee for the term of three years, namely Geo. H. Mulligan and Horatio S. Ayers. Both young men donned the khaki and volunteered to fight for King and country in the hour of their country's need.

Mr. Horatio S. Ayers, the defeated candidate, is a son of Mr. A. F. Ayers of Vancouver. He has already served part of a term on the board, and by his modest and candid, yet acute grasp of matters shows clearly he has inherited many of the sterling qualities of his late saintly mother.

The esteem in which both young men are held was shown by one party's having marked his ballot for both candidates. Mr. Geo. Mulligan, however, won by a majority of three.

The councilman for this division of the M.D. of Bigstone is going to open up the blind line leading to the school house from the east, in the spring; that is if he is re-elected. Is this his latest promise? Of course if the other fellow is elected—what then?

The matter of sending a delegate to the trustees' convention at Calgary was discussed at length, but finally ended by a motion being passed giving the board power to send one of its members to said convention.

Query—Is it true that Messrs. Wm. Johnstone, B. Cummins, J. Dotterer, R. Van Valkenburg, F. B. Green and C. H. Sears are anticipating running for councilman for Div. 6 of the M.D. of Bigstone 459?

Johnny Haugen, the Edmonton boy competing in the Calgary ski tournament against the pick of the United States and Canadian jumpers, made an excellent showing, winning two firsts and tieing with Nelson of Revelstoke for second place in the distance open jump. Haugen, who is generally considered to be one of the most graceful jumpers in the game, won first place for style as well as first place in the standing jump for distance, amateur.

PROVINCIAL COAL OUTPUT LARGEST ON RECORD

The largest output of coal in the history of the province is the record of the Alberta mines for the past year, as announced by John T. Stirling of the government mines branch. The figures for the twelve months will total about 6,650,000 tons, as compared with 5,622,412 tons for the preceding year. Final returns are not yet in from all the mines for the month of December, but it is known that the total will be approximately as stated and will probably somewhat exceed those figures.

A marked increase in the shipments of Alberta coal to both the eastern and western markets was the outstanding feature of the year's business. To Manitoba there went 516,198 tons of domestic and steam coal, with an additional 1161 tons of anthracite, as against a total of 314,299 tons in 1919.

The British Columbia market took 108,130 tons of domestic and steam coal, a gain of nearly 20,000 tons over the preceding year.

Even Ontario furnished an increased market for Alberta fuel during the past year. Shipments of 10,688 tons were made to Toronto and other Ontario points, as compared with 208 tons for the year previous.

The foregoing figures for 1920, in all cases except the estimated total output for the year, cover eleven months only, to the end of November.

Of seventeen Presbyterian congregations involved in a proposed amalgamation scheme with Methodists in London Presbytery, only two opposed the union.

A Slow, Sluggish, Torpid Liver

RESPONSIBLE FOR MANY ILLS.

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills stimulate the sluggish liver so that it will regulate the flow of bile to act properly on the bowels and thus clear away all the waste and poisonous matter that is responsible for constipation, biliousness, sick headaches, heartburn, jaundice, etc.

Mrs. Alice McHill, Napanee, Ont., writes:—"I was very badly run down and had a torpid liver for over four months. I tried several remedies, but got no relief. One day my husband brought me home a vial of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, and before I had used half the vial I was much better. I only used two vials, and I am a different person to-day. I can safely recommend Laxa-Liver Pills to any one troubled with liver trouble."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c. a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

MILLET

There is no truth in the rumor that Millet is going to have a newspaper. We have heard that there is an editor born every day but up to the present none have located here.

Don't forget Friday night. Put on your old grey bonnet and hike for Pinyon's Hall, Millet, and be one of the crowd at the Millet Board of Trade old fashioned hard times dance. Millet orchestra will be there.

The principals in the Millet Board of Trade Minstrels are as follows: End right, Eric Milton; second right, W. H. Rowlandson; centre right, N. Hughson; end left, C. Mantell; second left, Harry Stuart; centre left, Fred Higginson; interlocutor, A. P. Mitchell. Augmented by a chorus of 15 ladies and gentlemen. Watch for the date.

Owing to the numerous enquiries in regard to the item that appeared in reference to the forthcoming wedding, we might say that although we are not in a position to say exactly who the parties are, we understand that a certain gentleman is trying to trade a stack of hay for a stack that can be moved on to his land.

Have you a button? If not you are a button short.

The Women's Institute will serve supper at the hard times dance on Friday.

A very enthusiastic combined meeting of the Millet Board of Trade and Agricultural Society took place at Mitchell's office on Thursday evening, when it was decided that the picnic grounds should be purchased and by doing so the community would be greatly benefitted. The matter is to come up before the village fathers, who will pass on it.

Large numbers of willow fence posts are arriving daily. Harry says that he cannot buy many more unless he can find somewhere to put them. He is talking about renting the lots on which the bulletin board stands. He says there will be lots of room there when the board is taken down.

We understand that the Methodist church is going to buy a new organ. "Oh let it be soon!" There is also a movement on foot to instal a pipeless furnace. If a pipeless furnace is anything like a fireless heater, they had better forget it.

Percy says that it wasn't him, it was Harry. Percy tells us that he has a good one on Harry. We are investigating. Watch next week.

We are also investigating a certain report in regard to the meeting of a Ford and a cow. It was so sudden that no one seems to know how it happened.

Ray Wolf is progressing very favorably, and is now out of danger.

The Agricultural Society has decided that in the near future they will have a masquerade dance. Date later.

The Millet Basket Ball team is planning for a game with one of Edmonton's star teams.

Millet's contribution to the Agricultural School at Olds is worthy of special mention, since Miss Marguerite MacLean carries away the first place in honors in their courses of study, Miss Ruby MacLean third in marks and Roger Howes ranks first among the boys. Congratulations.

MILLET SUNDAY SERVICES

Larch Tree—11:30.

Hillside—No service on account of sickness in the community, as public school is closed.

Millet—7:30. Special music and addresses.

The mission band has been reorganized under the leadership of Mrs. Dowler, and a very interesting meeting was held on Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Dowler.

The Trail Rangers club for boys has been also organized and will soon be in shape to carry out the complete fourfold program—intellectual, physical, social and religious—after the ideal of the Canadian Standard Efficiency Test.

OTTAWA MAN TALKED TO VANCOUVER OVER 5000 MILES OF WIRE

Ottawa, Jan. 26.—"Connect me with Vancouver." For the first time in the history of the Ottawa Bell telephone service the above call came into a long distance operator a couple of nights ago. The call was put in after 5 o'clock in the afternoon and by 9 o'clock the gentleman who had placed the order was talking to Vancouver.

The call was placed through Ottawa, New York, Chicago, Denver, Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Seattle and thence to Vancouver, a distance of considerably over 5,000 miles. Voices could be heard distinctly at both ends. While there was an occasional rattle in the telephone none of the conversation had to be repeated. The call cost $16.25 for three minutes.

PRICE CUTTING IN GREAT BRITAIN

London, Jan. 22.—England is in the throes of the greatest price-cutting campaign ever known. Clothing, shoes and hats are going down in prices, in some cases to below prewar level. Canned goods, food and furniture are also in the sales lists. Tens of thousands of women, with an accompanying army of men, are bargain hunting. Prices of garments for both men and women in many cases are 50 per cent below manufacturing cost. Men's all wool suits are being sold at $19.65, and they include blue serge by one large tailoring establishment, indigo dyed serges and tweeds. Every one of these carries an all-wool guarantee. Men's shoes, which sold at from $5 to $13 per pair three months ago are now sold for $7.50.

"The bottom has dropped out of all demand during the past year," says the managing director of one of London's biggest stores. "This began with the money stringency in the United States. Large orders were cancelled," he continued, "with Europe, when the rate of exchange rose so sharply against our constitutional neighbors and there are further cancellations from the continent.

"Factories and wholesale houses are thus left with huge stocks on their hands. They are faced with huge liabilities and must move the goods. They are acting on the sound business axiom 'first loss is least loss.' England is getting back to normal again, and wholesalers are selling out at prices on this basis. Bread is cheaper; sugar is about to drop from 20 to 15 cents a pound; rice to 10 and 11 cents; jam is about to drop 4 cents a pound and the price of lard and bacon will be 6 cents lower in two or three weeks, the butchers say."

It remains only for Britain to solve her "unemployment problem" to be back again on a peace footing, though prices will never again reach the low levels at which they were before the war.

CANADA CAN RETALIATE

New York, Jan. 25.—The New York World this morning deals editorially with the resentment shown by Canadian newspapers over the proposed emergency tariff now being considered by the senate finance committee at Washington. It mentions specifically editorials in the Toronto World, Toronto Globe, Montreal Star, Toronto Telegram, Manitoba Free Press, Victoria Colonist and Regina Post advocating retaliatory emergency tariffs.

"They reflect a disposition up that way to strike back, the World says, "Next to the United Kingdom Canada is the best customer in the world is our best customer. We exported to the dominion last fiscal year more than $890,000,000 worth of merchandise. We imported in return only about $537,000,000 worth. Our exports consisted chiefly of manufactures. Our imports from that quarter consist chiefly of raw materials of manufacture. No economic proposition is simpler or more indisputable than that if we further cripple Canada's ability to pay, we shall by the same measure reduce our present enormous export trade to Canada. And this is what the Fordney and McCumber tariff bills, preparing or prepared, aim to do, and will do.

"The folly of this legislation is even greater than thus appears. Canada above all other customers of ours, is in a position to hit back. She can get most of the manufactures now bought in the United States from Great Britain just as well, and a strong preferential tariff in favor of the mother country cannot fail to hit the manufacturing industry of the United States a staggering blow. And this is precisely what Canada is preparing to do if Congress shall provoke the retaliation."

The World concludes: "This is not merely a Bourbonism that can not even learn that a war has been fought and the whole foreign trade of the United States radically changed. It is suicidal idiocy."

BOY SCOUTS

Have you secured your tickets for the display and entertainment that is being staged at the Parish Hall on Wednesday, Feb. 2nd, at 8 p.m.? If not, get them right now, as accommodation is limited. The 2nd Wetaskiwin Troop Boy scouts and 1st Wetaskiwin Wolf Cub Pack will give displays of their work. The Scouts will present a rattling good play "A Real Good Turn" and the Wolf Cubs will give a striking series of tableaux, "Why Wolf Cubs?" These tableaux met with an enthusiastic reception at the 1920 jamboree, London, England.

TOWN TOPICS

Remember the curlers' dance in Angus Hall on Tuesday evening next. Lynch's four-piece orchestra.

Rev. J. W. Wilkin was at Edmonton last week attending the convention of the Red Cross Society.

Miss Mary Ryan went to Edmonton a few days ago to become a nurse-in-training at the General hospital.

The Norwegian Ladies' Aid will meet at the home of Miss Belsheim on Friday of this week, January 28th, at 2 p.m. All cordially invited.

Have you renewed your subscription to The Times, before the increase in price, which takes place on February 1st? If not, you should act quickly.

Mrs. Bliven of Havre, Mont., daughterof Jas. Waring, is visiting at the parental home here for a couple of weeks.

The Scandinavian Ladies' Hospital Aid will meet at the home of Mrs. Ed. Eye on Tuesday, Feb. 1st at 3 p.m. As this is the annual meeting, all members are requested to be present.

Mrs. Ben Shantz came down from Edmonton to attend the reception to Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Shantz, after their honeymoon, and to visit other relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Torger Jevne and baby of Wetaskiwin have been spending a few days in town, visiting with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Kyler.—Ponoka Herald.

The Wetaskiwin hockey team was defeated on Tuesday evening by the team from Daysland, the score being 5 to 1. The game was fast and clean throughout.

The Ladies' Hospital Aid Society will meet at the home of Mrs. Alex. Knox ,on Tuesday, February 1st, at four o'clock. All interested in hospital work are cordially invited to attend.

N. N. Gullekson of Sioux Falls, Mo., arrived in the city on Monday to visit his sister, Mrs. J. P. G. Fostvedt, and with other relatives. He did not reach Wetaskiwin in time for the funeral of the late Mr. Fostvedt.

A number of strangers are in the city this week, the attractions being the seed fair, under the auspices of the Wetaskiwin Agricultural Society, the Wetaskiwin Poultry Show, and the annual bonspiel. We will give complete reports of all these attractions in our next issue.

The W.C.T.U. will meet at the home of Mrs. W. Brown, Andrea St., on Tuesday evening next, Feb. 1st. The program will take the form of a Frances Willard Memorial. A paper will be given on her life's work and special music will be rendered. Refreshments will be served and a silver collection taken.

We were slightly in error last week in reporting that Ben Jackson was fined $1.00 and costs for allowing boys under age to loiter around the pool room and play billiards. He was found guilty of the first charge, but was acquitted on the charge of the boys playing billiards. R. J. White, the proprietor of the Palm Pool Room, asks as a special favor that if anyone knows of boys under the age of eighteen frequenting the pool room, they notify him to that effect.

The annual congregational meeting of Knox Presbyterian church was held on Wednesday evening last, when the reports of the past year were received. The session reported 105 families in connection with the church. The Sunday School enrollment is 165, and 32 names are on the Cradle Roll. The revenue for ordinary expenditure amounted to $3600, while the combined missionary givings of the congregation, the Women's Missionary Society and the Mission Band amounts to $566. The retiring managers were re-elected.

A congregational farewell to Rev. E. McGougan and Mrs. McGougan was the feature of the annual meeting of Knox Presbyterian church on Thursday evening. In view of their minister's early removal to take up work in Vancouver, the Knox people took advantage of the yearly business meeting of the congregation to pay testimony to his worth and character and to present him with a purse of $500 in gold. A gold-handled umbrella was presented to Mrs. McGougan.—Edmonton Journal.

Another fine program at the Wilson Theatre Friday and Saturday. You will remember Lon Chaney in "The Miracle Man." See his wonderful performance in 'The Penalty,' also an added attraction, a Lloyd comedy 'Get Out and Get Under.'

SITTINGS OF DISTRICT COURT

The regular sittings of the District Court were held at Wetaskiwin on the 18th inst., His Honor Judge Lees presiding.

The following cases were disposed of:—

Stadel vs Little — Judgment for plaintiff for $150 and costs. Counterclaim dismissed with costs. Mr. Philip of Bashaw for the plaintiff and Mr. McDonald of Edmonton for defendant.

Pendleton vs Folland—Judgment for plaintiff for $29.50 and costs. The defendant's counterclaim for $300 was dismissed with costs. W. H. Odell for the plaintiff, R. W. Manley for defendant.

Rex vs John Young—There were four charges against the accused, namely: Theft of goods from Falun store on the 6th of December last; theft of about 60 bushels of oats and three quarters of beef, the property of John P. Ochs, on or about the 9th of January; theft of two revolvers from the Alberta Provincial Police Barracks, Wetaskiwin, on or about the 10th of January; and escape from custody from the A.P.P. Lock-up at Wetaskiwin on or about the 10th of January. Accused pleaded "Guilty" and was sentenced to twenty (20) months on each charge, time to run concurrently.

Rex vs John Harding—Two charges against him, one theft of goods from Falun store and the other, theft of about 60 bushels of oats and three quarters of beef, the property of John P. Ochs. Accused pleaded "Guilty" and was sentenced to six months at Fort Saskatchewan Gaol on each charge, time to run concurrently.

Rex vs Henry E. Wheele—Charge theft of goods from Falun store. Accused pleaded "Guilty" and was sentenced to six months at Fort Saskatchewan Gaol.

Other cases on the list were stood over until the next sittings commencing the 1st of March.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our relatives and friends for their kind assistance during the illness and after the death of our dear husband and father, Rev. J. P. G. Fostvedt; also all the congregation and other friends who so liberally contributed to the beautiful floral offerings. May God bless and reward you all.

Special Announcement

While there has been a general drop in the price of several commodities during the past few weeks, there has been no reduction in the cost of newsprint and other items entering into the production of a newspaper.

On the other hand, there have been increases during the past year of about forty per cent., and experts express the opinion that further increases may be looked for shortly, as the output of the paper mills is not sufficient to meet the demand.

To meet this condition it is necessary that the subscription price of this paper be raised. Therefore:

On and after February 1st next the price of The Times will be $2.00 to any address in Canada, with 50c additional to U. S. subscribers

Until the end of this month we will be glad to accept renewals at the old rate of $1.50 to Canadian addresses and $2.00 to the U.S. Send in your renewal at once, and take advantage of the old rate.

The total value of Alberta's dairy products in 1920 reached $34,000,000, a gain of nearly two million and a half dollars, and over one million pounds over the value of the 1919 output. In 1910 the total value of all milk products amounted to $7,865,751, about one-quarter of the value of the 1920 production.

FORESTS OF CANADA ARE SOURCE OF RICH REVENUE

Canada's 225 million acres of merchantable timber is the second largest asset of her natural resources wealth. The bulk of this timber is within easy reach of tidewater. Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and British Columbia can almost dump their logs in the oceans, while Quebec and Ontario have the St. Lawrence River for a path to the sea.

In 1906 the greater part of Canadian lumber exports went out in the raw state, only a little over one-third was manufactured in Canada. The next ten years saw a strong and continued increase in industrial development and by 1917 the tables had quite turned. In that year more than 70% of Canada's lumber exports were manufactured and less than one-third left the country in a raw state.

Ever increasing demand for pulpwood and paper is responsible in large measure for this rapid development. American imports of Canadian woodpulp (all kinds) for four months, ending July 31st, 1920, amounted to $20,839,881. According to latest statistics Canada's available supply of pulpwood is 901,000,000 cords and covers 350,000 square miles. Over a third of this spruce and balsam stands in the eastern provinces, convenient to the eastern states with their many newspapers and publishing houses. It is estimated that, at the present rate of cutting, this supply will hold out for 62 years. Strict cutting regulations, wise conservation and reforestation plans are looked to to prevent the annihilation of Canadian forests and lumbering industries.

British Columbia's woods are attracting much foreign capital, American money is going into new pulp and paper mills on the Pacific Coast. Approximately, 85% of all capital invested in the paper pulp industry in Canada is American. An English syndicate is building a $250,000 furniture factory in British Columbia. Box factories flourish all over the province the small fruits, vegetable, honey and poultry ranches of the southern part of the province need countless crates and boxes for getting their produce to market. British Columbia's strategic situation for shipping to Pacific Coast ports and the Orient, its numerous good harbors and the fact that the climate permits all the year round lumbering have not been overlooked by capital seeking investment.

THAT PERSISTENT HACKING, RACKING COUGH

Can Be Quickly Relieved By

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup.

The terrible, hacking, lung-racking cough that sticks to you in spite of everything you have done to get rid of it, is a great danger to your health, and the longer it sticks, the more serious the menace becomes.

The constant coughing keeps the lungs and bronchial tubes in such an irritated and inflamed condition they get no chance to heal.

You will find in Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup a remedy that loosens the phlegm and heals and soothes the lungs, whereby fortifying them against serious pulmonary disease.

Mr. J. W. F. Whitely, Vermilion, Alta., writes:—"I wish to express my thanks for what Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup has done for me. For a number of weeks I had been suffering from a very severe hacking cough, and all the remedies I tried failed to relieve me. At last I secured a bottle of "Dr. Wood's," and after taking it I secured great relief. Needless to say it is now my intention to always keep a supply on hand."

"Dr. Wood's" is 35c. and 60c. a bottle at all dealers. The genuine is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

SON IS NOW LIKE A DIFFERENT BOY

MOTHER DOESN'T WORRY ABOUT HIM NOW, FOR HE IS ALL RIGHT SINCE TAKING TANLAC

"Since Tanlac has helped my young son so much, no one shall ever persuade me to buy anything in its place" said Mrs. M. Richmond, 319 Vernon Drive, Suite 6, Vancouver, B.C.

"For about two years my son James was in a badly run down condition. His appetite was so poor he was hardly eating enough to keep him up. He was nervous and restless, never slept well and always complained of feeling tired when he got up in the morning.

"He was very weak and had hardly any life or energy and I was afraid he was going to be laid up.

"My father had always been a great believer in roots and herbs and when I learned that Tanlac was made of them I thought of giving it to him, but was persuaded to give him another medicine instead, none of which did him any good.

"Finally a friend of mine told me of how much good Tanlac had done her so I got James a bottle and now he is just like a different boy since he started taking it. It has given him a wonderful appetite, he sleeps fine and gets up every morning feeling good, and all through the day he is full of life and energy. I have quit worrying about his health now, for I can see he is all right and Iam certainly grateful to Tanlac for what it has done for him."

A STEAMER TRIP TO VICTORIA, B.C.

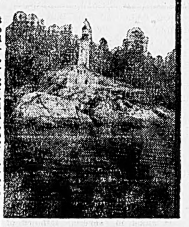

The Empress Hotel, Victoria, B.C.

Half way from Vancouver, on the seventy-mile trip to Victoria, a warning whistle sounds just before the steamer enters Plumber's Pass, a narrow gap between two islands which like a chain, fringe our Pacific seaboard. It is from here onwards that one sees the real beauties of the Coastal Belt of British Columbia, scenery of which one never tires. Here and there, on the chain of islands, the vivid green of alders or a pretty and prosperous farm peeps out from the sombre forest of firs. The giant Mount Baker, whose snow-clad cone stands a landmark for 90 miles or more, now on our port beam shines in the glittering sunlight above the rest of the cascades, and we see it all the way as it recedes far distant in the steamer's wake. To our south and east where the land and sea seem to meet is the faint outline of the entrance of Puget Sound on whose shores stand Seattle and half a dozen American towns. To our south and west, some twenty miles away, are the foothills of the mighty Olympics, whose glistening white peaks tower high above the skyline.

The Straits, which still bear the name of Juan de Fuca, are full of traffic. Side by side we pass, and dip our flag too, in passing, another of the Canadian Pacific Railway's palatial steamers—a tiny tug, towing a big boom of whole trees, swings into a little cove to shelter for the night. Another tig flying the Stars and Stripes, with half a dozen scows behind on its way from Tacoma to Sewards Bay, tells of big things up North where the building of a railway to the Behring Straits is in progress. We have left the mosquito fishing fleet at the Fraser's mouth, but every here and there are groups of gasoline launches trolling for salmon. On our starboard side, back from the hundred and one little islands, shows up the shore line of the Sanich peninsula and the small town of Sidney. On and on past rocks and islets and the same wonderful scenery.

C. P. R. Steamer Princess Charlotte.

Lighthouse on the Pacific Coast

As the steamer rounds the fruit farms of Gordon Head, and clears the point that separates Cordova and Cadboro' Bays, a natural park of irregular but perfectly spaced oaks, forms the feature of the island landscape. Oak Bay, Shoal, Foul Bay, Ross Bay, the last resting place of the "old timers," are passed in turn. Each with its own charm, delightful homes in white and red, in light and tan, and a variety of other hues, stand out from the remnant of the forest gardens, many a blaze of brilliance, green lawns grit with flowering shrubs, and, in the background, stately mansions, seemingly fairy palaces, steeped in a maze of marvellous loveliness, recall the memory of a picture sprung from the brain of some old master. Such is one's first impression of the "City of Homes," the "City of Clear Skies," the city that knows no winter and whose summers are cooler than our own.

The point that forms the entrance of the outer harbours is passed, and the charm gains and grows. The stately Parliament Buildings in grey stone, their broken lines to give them grandeur, their twenty turquoise tinted copper cupolas, their great dome crowned by Vancouver's statue, and the bold Norman entrance-arch above the façade of steps, have a fitting setting in a-front of grass and flowers, and in the glorious background of the snows of the distant Olympics.

Victoria, the Queen City, and such part of Vancouver Island where the mountains shelter the land from the Pacific gales has the ideal climate of the temperate zone. The winters of New Orleans, the summers of Labrador. The rain fall is 26 inches, the summer with the exception of a little rain in June are invariably dry, there are no high winds and no thunderstorms. It is the nearest approach to paradise on earth.

Every Canadian owes it to himself, some time or other, to make himself acquainted with Victoria, the capital of the Province of British Columbia, as well as the ideal surroundings of the East Coast of Vancouver Island.

A Series of TALKS ON MUSIC

By Prof. C. C. Laugher, Mus. Bac. Sarnia, Ont.

No. X—THE LUTE

Luters or lutists were attached to the household of kings and queens; and this form was not abolished until the 19th century.

The lute was the most popular instrument during the 15th, 16th and 17th centuries. It is an instrument traced from Egypt, where it appears depicted in sculptures; the lute held a prominent place in European home life and was only supplanted by the keyboard instruments of the piano type.

Lutes were generally built very artistically, the pear shaped body being composed of narrow strips of wood glued together with great care; the lute originally had eight thin gut strings arranged in pairs, each pair tuned in unison. This same instrument was considered exceedingly difficult to tune.

The lute was popular during its long existence, and the mandolin may be considered its most modern form.

The lute was the first instrument except the organ, to make prominent the harmonic style as contrasted with contrapuntal, it was the favorite instrument of high society and was instrumental in familiarizing the musical world with that form of music or melody supported by chords.

The lute was popular because its playing required less mechanical ingenuity to bring it to perfection, it is also a portable instrument and well adapted to domestic performances.

The kind of music written for the lute consisted mainly of dance tunes in sets, with some fanciful movements but the ornamental aprts in music seemed childish and tame, yet this kind of music formed the basis of a long and continuous improvement including fantasias and preludes; simple passages of runs and arpeggios.

The pianoforte is now the most familiar object in domestic life and occupies the position at one time held by the lute, the pianoforte has a great advantage over previous instruments from a purely practical point of view.

The lute music was usually slow, soft and delicate; it would neither rage nor rattle, the music was certainly peculiar and was written on a 4 line staff.

The period of the invention of the lute is still a matter of speculation, some having said that it is of Asiatic origin.

Of the principal players and writers for the lute we mention Kapsberger, a German lute player and composer who spent most of his time in Italy composing for this instrument and the voice.

Lambert, born 1610, was another great lutist. He was master of chamber music to Louis XIV and composed music for the lute and was himself a great virtuoso.

Gaultier of the same period was another lute player of fame and was renowned for his execution. He, with his cousin Jacques, established a school for lute playing in Paris which proved a great success.

Galilei, who is said to have formed the basis for the more modern vocal solo, composed many airs for single voice with accompaniment on the lute, was also a great musical theorist.

The lute was considered the most difficult instrument to tune, much patience and perfect ear being required. Mattheson (1720) calculated despondently that "if a lute player had lived eighty years, he has probably spent about sixty years tuning his instrument." It is even recorded that Mary Queen of Scots required persons from London to tune her lute.

Much literature has been published concerning the lute, song and story are full of allusion to the "trembling lute" the "whispering lute" and the "warbling lute."

The lute disputes with the organ the honor of first having compositions written for it.

THE MISUSE OF SUNDAY

If we were asked to name the most unsatisfactory day of the week from a world standpoint, we think it would be Monday, caused largely by the misuse of Saturday afternoon and Sunday. It is an economic fact that more than half of the people of this country return to their work on Monday either physically or mentally weaker than they left it Saturday night. In most localities the industrial output of Monday is below that of any other day in the week. For many people Sunday is not a day of recreation, but of dissipation. One test of people is their use of leisure and this is the test that Sunday brings. Sunday should be a day of escape from the things that irritate, annoy and sap out the strength. It should be a day with a purpose that brings release from the week's routine. The man or woman who permits Sunday to be starved or crowded out loses the best part of the week. Sunday brings its own peculiar gifts to the spirit, rest, worship, recreation, leisure, renewal of friendship and meditation. Never were these values more needed than today, and it is unrealized because of the misuse or lethargy.—Exchange.

CREOLE BELLE

She was as superb a bit of horseflesh as ever grazed in a Virginia meadow. From forelock to fetlock, she was as trim and symmetrical as a sailing yacht, and she skimmed swift and even as the gliding of a vessel on a summer sea. She was a beautiful dark bay, with a jet black mane and tail of luxuriant growth. Her nostrils were wide and delicate and her eyes had in them a spark that in man is said to mark genius. If there was a single blemish to the symmetry of her form—she was scarcely fifteen hands high—it was the breadth and depth of her chest. Her legs were straight and slender, and that suppleness of joint which marks a good trotter was hers. And how she could trot! When the horses used for various purposes on the plantation were released from the stable and rushed at a gallop down the long lane to the pasture, Creole Belle could be seen always easily leading the galloping herd at a swinging trot. If there was any truth in the saying "Blood will tell," great things could be expected of Belle. Her dam was a famous horse that Colonel Castleman had ridden throughout the civil war, and many the tale he could tell of how this horse by her speed and endurance had saved him from death or capture. Her sire was a famous stallion that three times had won the race-course laurels for the Virginia against the best of the Blue Grass state.

Belle Creole had often been sought or the leading turfmen of the country, but Colonel Castleman had steadily refused to sell her for the most fabulous prices. To all offers he replied: "No sir, I can't part with her at any price. Dixie could not get along without her."

Dixie was the Colonel's only daughter, and it would have been a rare father indeed who could have refused such a daughter anything. She was only fifteen and still baby enough to insist that the door between her mother's room and her own be left open at night, though in matters involving real danger she was brave enough. On the day when the men had first tried to saddle Creole Belle, and she had ungeremoniously sent the first to mount her flying over head, Dixie laid her cheek against Belle's beautiful head, patted her very gently, called her pretty names, and then from the low stile had sprung on her glossy back—and rested there as safely as in her father's arm-chair. Dixie it was too who had first harnessed Belle to the light buggy. On that day the little mare seemed to have found the purpose of her existence. She sniffed suspiciously at the harness, tossed her head disdainfully, tried a few steps forward, and then trotted leisurely out into the big road. After that it was no uncommon sight to see the slender girl, with hat slipped far back on her head, spinning at an astonishing speed over the country roads in a light buggy drawn by a beautiful dark horse.

But the time came when it seemed that Dixie and Creole Belle would have to part. Colonel Castleman's generosity to his neighbors had got him into financial trouble. A planter's wealth is seldom ready money, and in order to pay the indebtedness for which he had made himself responsible he had decided to sell Creole Belle. When the bargain was about to be concluded Dixie rushed out and throwing her arms about the horse's neck, cried between her sobs: "Poor Belle, my poor little Belle! Oh papa, don't let him take her—she'll be worth more than anything some time." Colonel Castleman turned to the would-be purchaser and said: "Well, sir, you can't have her at any price. I have two others I will sell. Jeff, bring out the carriage horses."

Dixie's prophecy that Belle would be "worth more than anything some time" came true.

Dixie's only brother, a boy of eighteen, attended school at Riverton, a town six miles from the Castleman home. A macadamized road, smooth and level, led to the town and during the early fall and spring months Richard drove to and from school every day. One day in early September Mrs. Castleman came into the kitchen just before the noon hour to see that all preparations were being made for the noon-day meal. "Well, I declare, I forgot to give Richard any lunch this morning," she exclaimed.

"Dean you worry 'bout dat," said old Aunt Mary. "I allus takes keer of Marse Dick. I grib him a lunch of eggs and biscuit and pie dat'll do him all right." Then with the well-known tendency of the members of her race to dwell on one subject in their own regarded as meritorious by those to whom they owe service, she continued: "I was too early foh de crowd dis mawnin', I got de eggs ma'ec out en de nes' under de ol' stump."

Mrs. Castleman turned upon her with a look of horror. Just then one of Aunt Mary's numerous grandchildren came running in. "Oh, Mis' Castleman," he stammered eagerly, "de pizen eggs is gone. We git de crows dis time. I watch all mawnin' but none didn't come, and jis now I sneak down and de eggs is gone. De ol' crow mus' be mightly sick, or I see him, but we done git him now."

Aunt Mary's black face was ashen. She sat down on the door, and rocking herself back and forth, moaned pitifully. Mrs. Castleman seemed almost powerless to move or speak. Dixie, attracted by Aunt Mary's moaning, came flying in. A few words explained what had happened. Mrs. Castleman had placed two eggs poisoned with strychnine in a nest, which the crows had been robbing. She had carefully warned all the men and children about the place, but Aunt Mary had not been farther than the chip yard for years and it had never occurred to Mrs. Castleman to mention it to her. Those eggs had been given to Richard for his lunch. It was now nearly twelve noon, and at that time Dick would eat his lunch, and death was certain. There seemed no possible way to save him.

Dixie's cheeks blanched and with terrified eyes she glanced at the clock. It wanted but twenty-five minutes to twelve. A queer little look of resolution came about her chin, and turning she rushed from the house and sped like a deer to the pasture. She bung down the heavy bars and called frantically, "Belle, Belle, come Belle." The beautiful mare lifted her head, looked for an instant, and then sped swiftly to her. Dixie from her perch on the fence sprang on her back and guiding the horse's head with her hand, cried, "Go, Belle, go!" At the stable door Dixie slipped to the ground and literally threw on the harness. With the help of the little negro boy Jim, who had ran to help her, she had Belle harnessed to the buggy in a jiffy.

The little negro's dusky eyes flashed as he cried, "She kin do it, Mis' Dixie, I know she kin." Dixie pulled up on the lines and Belle was off like a flash. As she passed the house, Mrs. Castleman cried despairingly, as she wrung her hands, "Oh, it's no use, Dixie, you can't do it! There's only twenty minutes left."

But Dixie neither answered nor looked. Her eyes gave a little flash as she guided the horse through the gate and out into the broad smooth road. She sat forward on the very edge of the seat and braced her feet against the sill. She pulled firmly on the lines and pursing up her little mouth, gave a peculiar whistling sound. Belle Creole gave a little snort, and sped away evenly down the road. The light buggy seemed to vibrate in every part. The pebbles from Belle's flying hoofs cut Dixie in the face, but she did not heed them. Neither did she note the dark storm cloud that was creeping with deep mutterings above the western horizon. She thought only of Dick, now strong and full of life, pale and limp in death, his handsome face distorted with pain. Could she save him? Belle she knew could go fast, but could she go fast enough. Dixie had little idea of the speed and endurance of horses when measured in miles and minutes. If she had she probably never would have tried it. As it was, she bent eagerly forward and pulling firmly on the reins urged the horse on with a look of something near trust in her eyes.

About a mile from the Castleman home the railroad crossed the road to Riverton. As she dashed over the little knoll before reaching the crossing Dixie saw the local passenger train gliding smoothly down the track. It would stop at the station and block the crossing for at least three minutes, and three minutes might mean Dick's life or death. The train was close, but she must beat it. With frantic appeal in her voice, Dixie cried, "Beat it, Belle, beat it, go oh go!" Belle Creole seemed to comprehend the situation with something of human intelligence. She caught the note in Dixie's voice, tossed her head in the direction of the approaching train and with a little snort plunged on, seeming almost to step from under the harness. Some men standing near the station shouted a warning. The whistle shrieked, but Dixie heeded it not. The light wheels struck the rails and the buggy leaped into the air, and an instant later when Dixie glanced back the train was standing where she had crossed. She drew a deep breath and passed with lips half parted—that very train she knew was due at the station at eighteen minutes to twelve. The railroad made a wide detour and the train came into Riverton at 12:03. She must beat that train to Riverton or she would be too late. With her whole heart in the words, she cried, "Belle, Belle, go, go, please go!" Belle settled lower down in the shafts, lowered her usually arched neck, bent her ears slightly backward and reached out farther with her forefeet. At every step the skin on her haunches crimpled and her body swayed from side to side. The light buggy rattled and quivered and the harness scarcely touched the mare's sleek body. The spirit of the race track had taken possession of her, and her dilating nostrils glowed like fire. The sweat was pouring from her flanks and her shoulders were flecked with foam. They had passed the fourth mile post and Belle Creole's pace was still as even and rapid as when she dashed in front of the railroad train at Castleman. Her blood was telling indeed, her mettle was up, and she would be in at the finish.

Meanwhile the threatening storm had spread over the western heavens to the zenith. The jagged lightning flashed and crashing thunder rent the sky. But Dixie was oblivious to it all, and kept her eyes fixed steadily on the horse. The excitement had called a high color to her cheeks, and her eyes were very bright. Despite her brother's peril she could not but feel the pride of her race in the achievement of a wonderful horse.

About a mile from Riverton the railroad crossed the pike again. As she dashed up to it, Dixie looked up and down the track. The train was not in sight. Had it gone already? If it had she would be too late. Dixie's heart almost failed her now. There was a mile yet, and Belle had begun to show signs of fatigue. With the most touching tremor in her voice the girl cried: "Oh Belle, dear Belle, you must, you must, please go on!" Belle Creole did not fail her then. She responded to the appeal. Sinking lower in the shafts, and now reeling violently from side to side in her great effort, she maintained an undiminished speed. The thunder and lightning ceased. There was a dead calm such as precedes the bursting of a storm. All nature seemed to have paused in a breathless silence to look for a moment on the unequal match of Dixie and Belle Creole against the flying minutes.

The last knoll that hid the town from view was passed. Above the rattle of the wheels and the clatter of Belle's flying hoofs Dixie heard the concluding strokes of the large clock in the tower of the academy. She would be in time yet! Belle dashed around the corner and down the long quiet street. People looked from their windows and wondered to see a foam-flecked horse driven by a young girl with flying hair and flushed cheeks dashing at a reckless speed down the street. In front of the schoolhouse Dixie drew up with a sharp pull on the lines. She sprang from the buggy, up the stone steps, through the open door, and was up the long flight of stairs leading to the second story almost in an instant. She glanced into a room, and there in one of the deep windows sat Dick unfastening the clasp of his lunch box. She screamed, "Dick, don't! It's poisoned!" And flying across the room, she threw herself sobbing into his arms. She tried to explain through her tears how the eggs were poisoned and she had come to save him.

Dick did not go to school that afternoon. After the storm had passed Belle Creole trotted leisurely back over the road to the old farmhouse, drawing with evident pride a big brother and a sister resting contentedly. Tears of joy and fervent thanks to the Most High on the part of the entire Castleman household marked their arrival at the home.

The little negro boy, Jim, was wild with joy, not so much, it seemed, because Dick had been saved, but because Belle Creole had saved him.

He mumbled over her like a piece of gingerbread and when not standing on his head or turning cartwheels, muttered to himself about six miles and twenty minutes and tried vainly to figure out just what time Belle Creole had made.

The organization of an Optometric association is to be asked from the legislature, the petition with this object in view already being in the hands of the clerk of the house.

HEART and NERVES BOTHERED HER.

Housework Played Her Out.

Mrs. Earl Parr, Ogoma, Sask., writes:—"Three years ago my heart and nerves began to bother me. I could not do my housework without being almost completely played out. After sweeping a small room I would have to sit down and rest, and would feel as if I could not get enough air.

Every few nights I would have horrid dreams, such as the well caving in while I was pumping a pail of water, or the children, or me myself falling in, and I could not move, as I would be awake for a time then. I went to my doctor, and he told me it was my nerves, that they had been shaken by a previous illness. He gave me some medicine, but as soon as it was gone I was as bad as ever again. I got half a dozen boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and the first box did me much good, and can truly say I have no lack of health now, and don't feel so tired after a good day's work, as I did before after sweeping one small room; also have had none of those horrid dreams for months and months."

Special Announcement

While there has been a general drop in the price of several commodities during the past few weeks, there has been no reduction in the cost of newsprint and other items entering into the production of a newspaper.

On the other hand, there have been increases during the past year of about forty per cent., and experts express the opinion that further increases may be looked for shortly, as the output of the paper mills is not sufficient to meet the demand.

To meet this condition it is necessary that the subscription price of this paper be raised. Therefore:

On and after February 1st next the price of The Times will be $2.00 to any address in Canada, with 50c additional to U. S. subscribers

Until the end of this month we will be glad to accept renewals at the old rate of $1.50 to Canadian addresses and $2.00 to the U.S. Send in your renewal at once, and take advantage of the old rate.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The Women's Institute will meet on the last Saturday of the month, Jan. 29th, in the Alexandra school, at 3 p.m. A specially interesting program is expected, as Mrs. Alexander, a Methodist missionary from Japan, now on furlough in Canada, has promised to give an address. Mrs. Alexander's children will furnish the musical part of the program. Tea will be served and a silver collection taken. The institute is undenominational and every lady in the city and surrounding district will be made welcome.

Take care of your eyes. See Meckenburg, the old established eye specialist, at the Driard Hotel, Wednesday, February 2nd.

"ONCE TO EVERY WOMAN"

Her face was fair, her voice golden. Phillip Scudder fairly worshipped her, but he was only acceptable when no more presentable suitor was around.

A visitor from New York was so impressed with her voice that she offered to send her to Italy to study. Several years later Aurora made her debut in grand opera in New York and proved a sensation. She had admirers by the hundred, and the social leaders were at her feet, but at the moment of her supreme triumph she lost her voice, and her friends neglected her one by one, while the suitors who had offered their hearts and hands the day before hastily withdrew.

She returned to the country town that had once been an endless bore to her. What happened?

For the answer see Dorothy Phillips in her Universal-Jewel success, "Once To Every Woman."

CENSORSHIP OF MOVIES BY DEPT. OF EDUCATION

The alarming increase in juvenile crime in Alberta which headed up in the City of Edmonton recently by two boys, both from good homes, committing offences culminating in the seizure of a taxicab and attempted escape from the province has so worked up public sentiment in that city that a large mass meeting was held in McDougall church Sunday, January 23rd, when the following resolutions were passed:

Resolved that in our opinion the time has arrived when the Dominion government should institute an investigation by means of a commission concerning the whole moving picture situation in all its aspects.

Inasmuch as vaudeville shows very suggestive of indecency and immorality are frequently presented in our city, we would urge upon our civic authorities a stricter supervision of vaudeville shows.

Further we recommend that this mass meeting appoint a representative committee to consider the whole question of the control and censorship of our theatres.

Whereas the moving picture as a source of entertainment and education has apparently become an established institution and whereas it is obvious that irreparable damage in a moral sense may come to the people of this province through the public exhibition of vicious pictures, therefore be it resolved that the whole matter of the control and censorship of moving pictures and the public advertisement thereof be placed by the government of this province under the department of education.

There seems to be no doubt in the minds of those who have investigated these recent cases that these crimes have been committed with the spirit of adventure as these boys were not in need of either money or clothing. We sincerely hope that the proper authorities will take the necessary action to have all future moving picture films properly censured.

The Social Service Council of Alberta.
H. H. Hull, General Secretary.

Alberta Social Service council requests provincial government to appoint commission of three to control liquor sale, states its interpretation of "bone dry" to be absolute elimination as a beverage, but to permit medicinal and mechanical use of .33 alcohol.

WIDOW GETS $4,500 DAMAGES, DEATH OF HUSBAND

Shortly after the action brought by Emma Elizabeth Pritchard against the C.P.R. had started in the Supreme court before Mr. Justice Hyndman on Wednesday afternoon, the disputants were able to reach a settlement. It was announced that the railway company had agreed to pay $4,500 damages and $300 costs to the plaintiff for the death of her husband in the yards of the defendant at Wetaskiwin on April 28, 1920.

The deceased, Samuel Pritchard, was walking through the railway yards when he was struck by a locomotive and instantly killed. Negligence was charged, it being alleged that the train was travelling at an excessive rate of speed, that the brakes were not applied and that no warning was sounded.

The plaintiff's original claim was for $20,000. Friedman & Lieberman with C. C. McCaul as counsel, acted for the plaintiff, and George Walker of Calgary for the defendant.—Edmonton Journal.
